Q: How is art used to tell the nativity story?

Sophia

Christmas is a very special and holy time for my family. We get ready to celebrate Jesus' birth through telling the nativity story. In my church, we have a stained glass window of the nativity. Would you like to see it?

Here is the stained glass window from Sophia's church. It was created in England.

What can you see in this stained glass window?

- Can you find the baby Jesus?
- Can you see some animals?
- Can you see the baby's mother?
- What do you like the most?

Q: How is art used to tell the nativity story?

I like this stained glass window. I like how it reminds me of the Christmas story in one image. I like the bright colours the artwork uses to express the joy ar

Let's look at this artwork in detail.

Can you see the circle around Mary's head?

This circle is called a halo. A halo is a glowing ring around someone's head.

Can you find the halo around baby Jesus' head?

Q: How is art used to tell the nativity story?

A halo around someone's head is a sign to me to say this person is very special and holy. It tells me that Jesus is special, even when he was a baby, because he is God's son. The Christmas story is good news to me and full of joy.

A halo is a symbol that Christian artists use to tell people when looking at their artwork who is holy, or who to notice.

In the stained glass window in Sophia's church, both Mary and Jesus have a halo. Mary is the mother of Jesus and therefore very special. Jesus has a halo because the artist is saying that he is God's son and holy.

Q: How is art used to tell the nativity story?

Here is Mary.

She is often is painted in blue clothes. It is a symbol artists use to tell us who she is.

For Christians, Mary is very special or holy. Blue is a symbol of purity. It is also a very expensive colour to create so putting Mary in blue is another symbol that she is special. The artist of this painting is African and has painted everyone in the nativity story as Africans.

True or false?

Artworks of Mary, the mother of Jesus, always look the same.

At my church, we love Christmas. We have a special Christmas icon which I kiss when I enter the church. It reminds me of the Christmas story and how special the coming of Jesus is.

These three people are the clever people, or wise men, who came to visit Jesus.

Notice how both Mary and baby Jesus have halos showing how important they are.

Q: How is art used to tell the nativity story?

I love all the gold in this icon, it shows the beauty of this story. I love all the angels that are around Jesus's birth coming from heaven. Everyone is there to celebrate this moment. The people in the image look like they are Greek, like the artist.

The nativity is a really important image that many Christians paint and create art about all over the world.

What characters do you think should always be in an image of the nativity? Can you draw them and explain why?
